The 4 steps to personalize a Sartori rug

Sartori rugs can be personalized according to the customer's taste and demands. To do so in a simple way, it will be enough to use the tools that the company places at the customer's disposal: catalogue, samples, set of colours and rendering service.

STEP 1 – THE CATALOGUE

Leafing through Sartori catalogue, you can choose one of the many models which are proposed in the different collections or ask for a totally personalized pattern. In that case, the company will need a draft of the plan to be carried out.

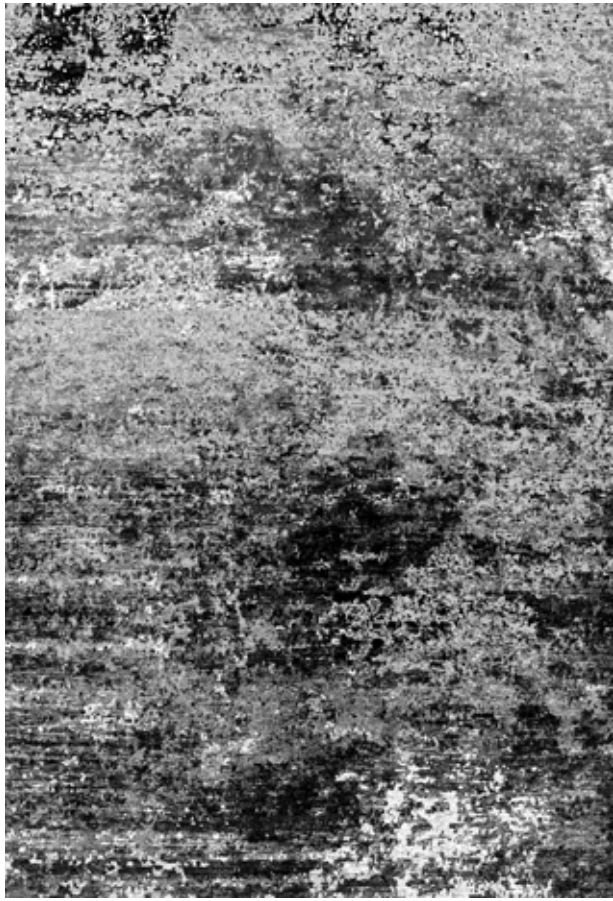

STEP 2 – THE QUALITY SAMPLE

All collections are created with a mix of fibres and a different production technique. Thanks to the quality samples, you can form a more precise opinion of the final product seeing it with your own eyes.

STEP 3 – THE SET OF COLOURS

According to the pattern the customer chooses, he can also choose the colours he likes. The set made by the company includes the 24 most trendy colours in the interior design world.

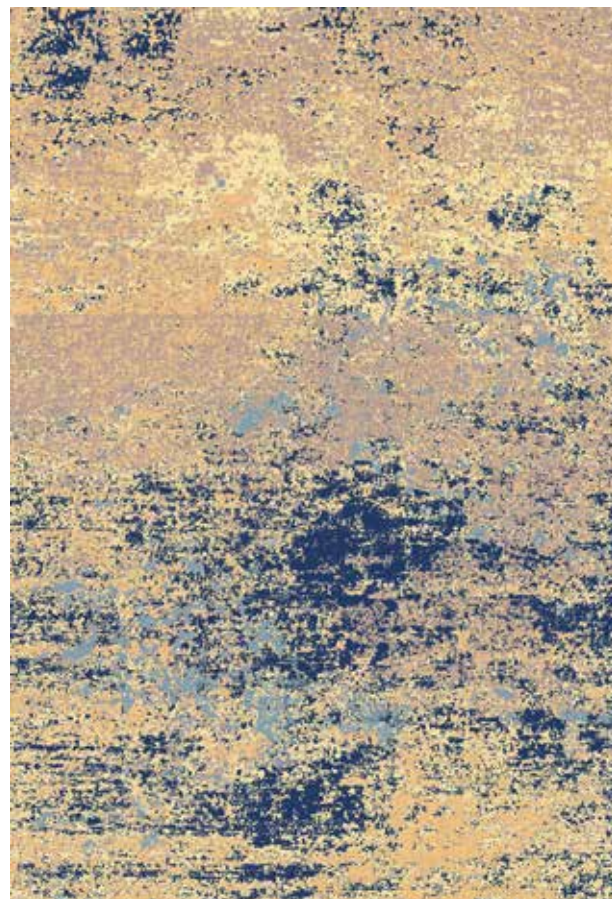

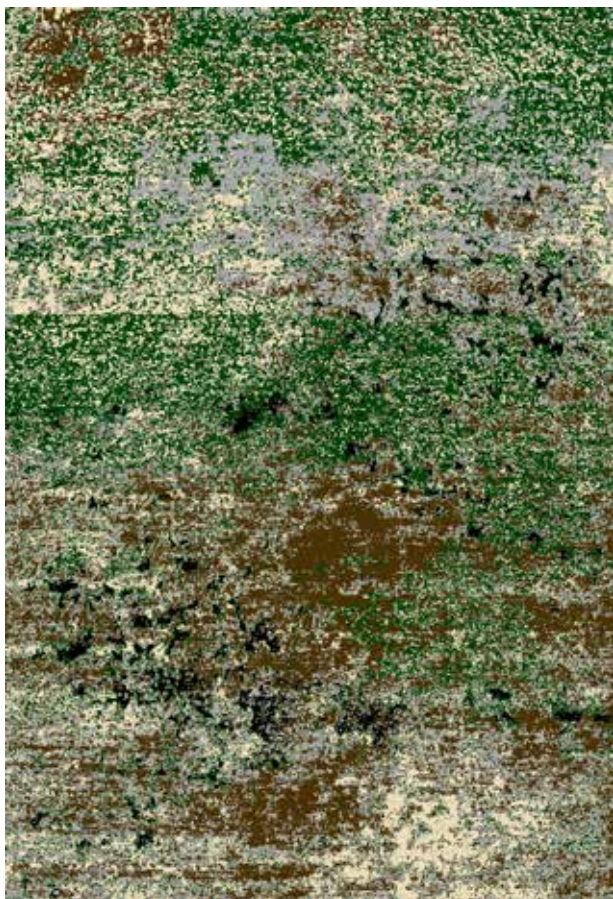

The picture above is an example of matrix proposed by Sartori in the Nika collection and chosen by the customer after looking at the catalogue.

STEP 4 – THE RENDERING

After the matrix, the typology and the colours have been chosen, the company will be able to make a rendering of the product before its creation so as the customer can assess it and give his final consent to the manufacture of the textile.

Some of the colours chosen by the customer for the making of the number 2 rendering, as under here.

After the colours have been set, we have produced the versions demanded by the customer according to the same matrix. In this way, it will be simpler to assess which mix of colours will be more suitable to the customer's demands.
